Background and professional experience

Dr. Elizabeth Connell Lewis has been a teacher, writer and gifted education specialist for over thirty years. She currently serves as the QUEST Center Coordinator, robotics coach, and Future Problem Solving program coach at Episcopal School of Baton Rouge in Baton Rouge, LA.

Prior to this role, she served as the Elementary Science Specialist, robotics coach and Future Problem Solving coach at Metairie Park Country Day School in New Orleans, LA; and as a Coordinator of Educational Programs at the Torrance Center for Creativity & Talent Development in Athens, GA. She has been a Lecturer in Gifted Education at The University of Georgia and at Piedmont University.

Elizabeth loves to identify and nurture potential in children of all ages and does this through instigating novel experiences that challenge, engage and inspire. Elizabeth is the mother of four highly creative children, whose gifts were not always appreciated or nurtured in school. She is passionate about helping parents and teachers to identify and nurture creative strengths in young children, so that this creativity might be applied to solve real-world problems.

Under the name 'Nurturing Potential' she has now bundled her experience and stories in various presentations and books, hoping to inspire learners of all ages to embrace their unique gifts and develop their talents!

Camilla Learns to Shine

Through her ocean adventures, Camilla shows us the benefits of being different while teaching our children empathy, understanding, and kindness.

My Teacher's Garden

Ms. Hildegard nurtures the children in her classroom just as a gardener tends to different flowers, giving each one what he or she most needs to blossom and grow.

Stick Boy

Peter is a dreamer, and with just the right stick, he imagines all sorts of exciting games and adventures. Although school is not always a good place for sticks, this school year begins with a pleasant surprise for Peter!
